DIVORCE TRIAL

Just Started in Germany Against Princess Will be Sensational

ROYAL PERSONS WITNESSES

BOTH PARTIES TO THE ACTION ARE SEEKING A DIVORCE

King Leopold's Daughter Louise Charges Cruelty Including Incarceration in a Mad House.

Gotha, Germany, Oct. 16.—The trial of the suit of Prince Philip of Coburg for divorce from the Princess Louise, daughter of King Leopold of Belgium, has just begun here today and it promises sensational. The prince alleges infidelity and desertion on the part of the princess. The princess is also seeking a decree on the ground of cruelties, including five years incarceration in a mad house. Dr. Visconti, a member of the Hungarian parliament as the princess' attorney, says if his client committed indiscretions she was driven to acts by the corrupt atmosphere of the Austrian court. He intends to call the king of England, the Austrian emperor and other royal persons as witnesses. The princess first came into prominence about eight years ago, because of her relations with Lieut. Matassich Keglitch of Austria.

LOCOMOTIVES GO INTO DITCH

Cow Lying Between the Rails Wrecks a Heavy Freight Train.

BOX CARS PILE UP AND BURN

Five Trainmen Meet Instant Death,
Being Crushed Beneath the Masses of Wood and Steel—Derailed Engines
Roll Down an Embankment, a Dozen Cars Following.

Seaton, Ill., Oct. 16.—A cow was responsible for a wreck on the Iowa Central road, at this point, a heavy double-headed freight going over an embankment and into a ditch. Five trainmen were killed.

The cow was lying on the ties between the rails. She was hidden from view by other cattle standing about. At the sound of the whistle of the approaching train the standing cattle scampered away, but the forward locomotive struck the lying cow. The animal was crushed under the wheels of the pilot truck and rolled along the ties for 100 feet. The animal's blood made the rails slippery and pieces of bone threw the front locomotive from the track. The derailed locomotive pitched down an embankment, drawing the second locomotive into the ditch, where the two machines piled up, crushing the engineers and firemen. Car after car crushed itself on the hot mass of metal and the wreck caught fire from the live coals of the locomotive fire boxes. The conductor and rear brakeman, with persons who lived near the wreck, hastily took the mangled bodies of the trainmen from the burning debris and saved the rest of the train from the flames.

Dead: Geo. Caffal, engineer; Harry Summers, engineer; Harry Barrett, fireman; L. H. Briley, fireman; P. T. Morgan, brakeman. All the men killed lived in Oskaloosa except Briley, whose home was in Monmouth, Ill. The engineers lived several hours after the wreck occurred, but the other three men were killed instantly. Brakeman Morgan was driven into the earth beneath the end of a boxcar. Fireman Briley was found dead, but apparently unharmed, beside the tangled steel of the locomotive. Engineer Summers was caught in the cab of his locomotive and cooked by steam and hot water from the boiler. He lived several hours, although large pieces of cooked flesh fell from the bones.

RACE SUICIDE IS A FACT IN OHIO

Plenty of Marriages are Recorded, but Not Enough Births According to Official Reports.

Columbus, Oct. 16.—Ohio men and women are marrying fast enough, but the size of the families is not increasing so rapidly as to allow the state to escape the brand of President Roosevelt that it is tending towards race suicide.

According to the social and vital statistics for the past year, just compiled by Statisticians Smith and Caine of the department of state, there were during the year 56,516 births in the state, while the marriages amounted to 42,212. In other words, 84,242 persons were joined in wedlock or as many and a half again as were born. These figures are considered altogether out of proportion.

During the year 33,195 Ohioans died. Births, deaths and marriages were all slightly fewer in number than those of the preceding year.

BEAUTIFUL

Young Woman in Ante-Mortem
Statement Refused to Disclose Her Identity.

New York, Oct. 16.—Found dying in a squalid tenement a strikingly beautiful young woman was hurried to the Presbyterian hospital today. In an ante-mortem statement to Coroner Scholer she admitted that she belonged to a family of wealth and prominence but refused information lest the family be humiliated by her misfortune. The man in the case and the victim are said by the coroner to be involved in a high social scandal which, if it becomes public, will startle the aristocracy.

WOMAN CONSCIOUS

Efforts to Locate Man Who Disappeared on Day of Olney Tragedy
Have Proved Fruitless.

Middletown, N. Y., Oct. 16.—Efforts to locate the man who disappeared from here on the day of the Olney tragedy and who is suspected of the crime have so far proved fruitless. The condition of Mrs. Fingerick, who was found unconscious in the Olney barn, has greatly improved. Her wounds are almost healed and she is able to talk rationally. She has not yet been informed of the death of her daughter and the Olney brothers, and she expressed surprise that the latter had not called to see her, as she said they owed her some money. The physicians hope that with the full restoration of her mental faculties she will be able to throw light upon the identity of her assailant.

NATION NOW A DEPENDENCY

Orders Sent to Japanese Headquarters to Commence the Evacuation of Manchuria—American Vessel Seized
by Mikado's Warships—Admiral Togo's Visit to Ize Temple.

Tokyo, Oct. 16.—Baron Hayashi, who has returned from Korea, declares that the uprisings in Korea are not serious, the irregular mobs being without leaders. He declared that the peninsula is now practically a dependency of Japan. Adequate capital and wise foresight would certainly develop the natural resources of the country and make Korea the source of considerable wealth.

It is believed that the government has sent an order to Manchurian headquarters to commence the evacuation of Japanese troops Oct. 16. It is expected that Japan will effect a complete withdrawal of her troops in six months.

The navy announces the seizure of the American steamer Centennial Oct. 19 in Soya strait. The Centennial is an iron schooner-rigged steamer of 2,075 tons. She is owned by the Charles Nelson company of San Francisco. She sailed from San Francisco Sept. 13 for Vladivostok.

The news that Vice Admiral Togo worshipped at Ize temple is creating a profound impression. It is believed that his act will furnish a lasting example in national religious education and that ancestral worship will be given fresh stimulation, especially in the army and navy. Admiral Togo shown his implicit faith in what he said in his report of the great naval battle, when he attributed the Japanese victory to the protection of the spirits of imperial ancestors.

PHYSICIAN

MYSTERY NOT YET CLEARED

NUDE BODY FOUND ON CAR BY RAIL-WAY BRAKEMAN

Knudsen Believed to Have Swam the River—Wealthy Club Man's Odd Experience.

New York, Oct. 16.—Lying unclothed and unconscious on the top of a New York Central freight car just as the train was drawing into Yonkers, Dr. Arthur Sinclair Knudsen, wealthy and a member of some of the best known clubs in New York, was found by a brakeman Sunday at Yonkers.

Two hours later his clothing was picked up by a policeman on the grass bordering the Speedway under Washington bridge. From the place where the clothing was found, the physician, to reach the nearest freight tracks of the New York Central, must have either swam the Harlem river or climbed a steep hill ascending from the Speedway and made his way to the Inwood station.

When he recovered consciousness in the hospital he declared he was unable to remember what had happened to him, where he had been or how he had contrived to travel such a distance without a stitch on his body.

His friends and associates declared his reputation is unimpeachable, and that he has always been of quiet tastes and habits. They as well as the physicians, corroborated his assertion that he had not been drinking and that he was not addicted to the use of intoxicating liquors; but Dr. Gannon, of St. Joseph's Hospital, said that when Dr. Knudsen was brought there he seemed to be under the influence of some kind of drug. He had no physical injury and there were no marks of violence on his body.

Dr. Knudsen said his last recollection was that, about midnight Saturday he was being driven uptown in a cab. He thought that at one time he had been in Broadway, and he had a hazy impression of having been escorted out of the cab by some person, whether man or woman, he did not know, at a place that seemed to be Eighth avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street. He admitted to Dr. Gannon that he felt the effects of a drug, but asserted his inability to explain how or by whom it had been administered to him. He was sufficiently recovered last night to leave the hospital and the mystery then was still impenetrable.

Dr. Knudsen is a graduate of Harvard class of 1896 and of the College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1901. Being of independent means, he did not practice his profession, but spent much time in travel. He is a member of a wealthy family in Honolulu, Hawaii, and came to this country for study and recreation.

Having no relatives in this country, Dr. Knudsen when in New York usually lived at one of his clubs. He kept much to himself, and it was said that the only member of the City Club with whom he was on terms of close association, was Wm. F. Wilbur.

It is agreed that Dr. Knudsen was in the club house on Saturday night until about 10 o'clock, and that he seemed to be in a cheerful mood. About that time he left and went to the Harvard Club, a few doors away, where he remained until a few minutes before two o'clock in the morning. Several fellow members with whom he talked said he complained of feeling ill, with a touch of indigestion, and that he ordered a bottle of apollinaris, after drinking which he seemed to feel better. When he left he called for a cab, but as the club service, which is from a stable on Fifty-third street, ends at 2 o'clock, he walked out and probably got one from the stand at Sherry's or Delmonico's.

From that time until he was found without clothing on the top of the freight car the case is a blank. Police man Diehl was walking along the Speedway at 7:30 when he saw the clothing lying on the grass.

Diehl assumed that the owner of the clothes had committed suicide by jumping into the river, and he took them to the station house. The sergeant in turn called up police headquarters and reported the information. Hadley had replaced the recorder when the telephone bell rang and Sergeant McGowan, on duty at night in the Yonkers police headquarters, called ed over the wire, saying he had learned of the finding of the clothes.

"Yes," replied Sergeant Hildebrand, "and we want to find the man who goes with them."

"Well, we've got him up here," was the answer.

"What! Did he float up there so soon?" asked the Hildebrand, who had accepted the suicide theory.

"No," replied McGowan. "He was found unclothed on top of a freight car on the Yonkers-New York line."

BILL UNANIMOUSLY PASSED.
Stockholm, Oct. 16.—The Riksdag today unanimously passed a bill introduced by the government, repealing the act of union with Norway and altering the flag of Sweden.

COURT MARTIAL

Called by Colonel Duggan at Ft. Sheridan—Taggart
Case May be Aired.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—Colonel Duggan, commander of the department of the lakes, United States army, today called a court martial to convene immediately at Fort Sheridan, to investigate charges against soldiers as may properly be brought before it. No information is obtainable from the officers, but it is said that the Taggart divorce case may be taken up and possibly Lieut. Portesque put on trial. Later today Col. Duggan said unless unexpected orders are received the Taggart case will not come up.

HEARTS ACHE OVER THE LOSS

BOTH REALIZE THEY HAVE NO CLAIM

Would Get Him Back If They Could
But Child Belongs to Mother, Goldie Yell.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 16.—George Reagan, formerly of Newark, O., now of Coshocton, Ohio, whose wife's story that their two year old baby had been kidnapped by its former nurse, created a stir in several cities last week, returned to Alton, Ill. from Coshocton, Sunday. Reagan said to a reporter today that an incident of his return had been a complete reconciliation between himself and his wife. Mrs. Reagan had been reported as having engaged an attorney for the purpose of instituting divorce proceedings against her husband. Mr. Reagan said:

"My wife and I today waived all claim on the little boy whom we cherished as our own for two years. Our hearts are aching over the loss of the little boy and we would get him back if possible, but we realize that we have no claim on him whatever, and that we must yield to the real mother, who is Goldie Yell."

Reagan will return at once to his work at Coshocton, and as soon as Mrs. Reagan can pack and ship the household goods she will follow him there.

Potter are Found Guilty of Conspiracy in the West.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 16.—The jury in the case against William N. Jones, former representative to the state legislature, Thaddeus Potter, a local attorney, and Ira W. Carter, a timber land speculator, returned a verdict today finding Jones and Potter guilty of conspiracy to defraud the United States of a part of the timber land owned by the United States government. The jury also found Carter guilty of conspiracy to defraud the United States of a part of the timber land owned by the United States government.

She is also the author of some very readable papers on packing house methods.

REAGAN CASE A REMARKABLE STORY

Advocate readers have been greatly interested in the Reagan kidnapping story, not only from the fact that the Reagans are former well known residents of Newark, but because the story itself is a remarkable one.

Scipio-McRae Press association and special telegrams from St. Louis and Alton, Ill., and the services of the energetic, wide-awake special correspondent of the Advocate at Coshocton have combined to give the readers of this paper a complete and accurate account of the story from day to day, a story that has read more like romance than fact. Here is the story in nut shell form.

October 10.—A St. Louis telegram to the Advocate tells of the disappearance of the two years old boy from the temporary home of his mother in Alton, Ill. Goldie Yell disappeared at the same time.

October 11.—St. Louis police suggest that Glassblower Reagan stole the child and took him to Coshocton, O.; a nurse's strange love for the child is supposed to have caused her to steal the boy.

October 12.—Goldie Yell's mother in Minnesota declares that the boy is not Reagan's but her daughter's, that Goldie simply took her own child who was palmed off on Mr. Reagan by his wife as his son, several perplexing tangles, and contradicting statements in the dispatches Reagan at first suspicious is positive boy is Goldie Yell's.

October 13.—Mrs. Reagan insists that the boy is her own; indignant at her husband's statement in Coshocton saying he is sure the boy is Goldie Yell's Mrs. Reagan threatens to sue for divorce; Reagan discredits the report, parentage of the child still mysterious.

October 14.—Boy is found in St. Louis with Goldie Yell, who claims to be his mother. Mrs. Reagan breaks down and admits it; Goldie says she will keep the boy and take him to Minneapolis refusing to consider a proposition for his adoption by the Reagans; news greatly depresses Mr. Reagan who leaves for St. Louis in an effort to induce the woman to give the boy to him as he loves him as he would his own son.

The explanation of this strange story is this: The Reagans had two children, both of whom died in infancy. Mr. Reagan left Alton, Ill., in September 1902, to work here and shortly after his arrival a child was born at Alton; the baby died; Goldie Yell had a child about the same age that she could not care for and Mrs. Reagan who greatly desired a child, consented to take the baby and did not think it necessary to tell her husband that another child had been substituted for his own. Mr. Reagan first saw the baby when it was five weeks old at the time Mr. Reagan brought it to Newark. The Reagans loved the boy as their own. Last spring Goldie Yell visited them in Coshocton and Reagan noted the resemblance between the child and the visitor but when he mentioned it to his wife she became agitated then indignant and Reagan dropped the subject. A mother's love prompted the girl to steal her boy and she thought that would be an easier way for all concerned rather than go into the courts to obtain possession of him as the boy had never been legally adopted by the Reagans.

An Advocate dispatch from St. Louis today says Mr. and Mrs. Reagan have abandoned hope of possessing the boy and are about to return to Coshocton heartbroken.

COSTLY GIFTS

From Oriental Emperors and Potentates to Miss Alice

SAID TO BE WORTH $100,000

CONGRESS MUST PASS SPECIAL ACT TO ADMIT THEM

As Duty Would Amount to About as Much as President's Salary for Whole Year.

Washington, Oct. 16.—If President Roosevelt's daughter desires to keep all the costly presents made to her by emperors, sultans and other potentates during her tour of the orient, she will have to ask the assistance of congress. In no other way will she be able to bring them in duty free unless she shall donate them to some national institution.

The law makes no exception in favor of the President or his family. Consequently when Miss Alice arrives in San Francisco harbor she will have to declare to the customs officers the value of all the articles she brings. The appraisers will then assess the duty on them according to law. If the gifts are really worth as much as reports have it—and the estimates carry the value as high as $100,000—Miss Roosevelt could not afford to pay the duty, which would amount approximately to her father's salary for a year. All the jewelry she brings will be assessed sixty per cent ad valorem. The string of pearls which the Sultan of Sulu handed her after she had politely refused to become his wife will be assessed in the same percentage as will the laces and silks which she received from the Empress Dowager of China. Jades, which are said to form a large portion of the gifts, must pay 45 per cent.

The only way out for Miss Alice is to have a special act passed by congress remitting the duties. There is precedent for this. General Sherman, after the civil war, went abroad. The Khedive of Egypt desired to do him honor and wanted to give him a valuable present. It was pointed out to him that the general could not accept it without the authorization by act of congress. So the Khedive presented the gift to his daughter. It consisted of a diamond necklace, the value of which was popularly estimated at a large figure. Congress allowed the gems to come in free, passing a special act for the purpose. Until the act had been passed the necklace was held at the New York custom house.

Treasury officials say there is only one other way in which Miss Alice could get the gifts in free. That would be to declare them works of art intended as a gift to the national museum or some other national institution.

TEN THOUSAND FOR HIS SKIN

LOVEJOY WHO GAVE CUTICLE TO SAVE A FELLOW ELK'S WIFE IN THE WEST.

Declares More Skin Was Taken Than Bargained for and Damage Suit is the Result.

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 16.—George A. Lovejoy, the Elk who was selected to furnish cuticle to save a fellow Elk's wife suffering from severe burns has brought suit against C. P. Thomas for $10,000 as the value of 50 inches of skin which he says the doctor peeled off his legs while under chloroform. Mr. Lovejoy asserts that he presented to him that the surgeon would take from his thighs only two or three strips of cuticle three or four inches long and three-fourths of an inch wide. After the operation he found that the front of his legs between knee and hip was stripped and it was 10 days before he was able to leave the hospital. Mrs. Fred B. Searles was burned in an accident with a lamp at Lewiston Idaho and was brought here to St. Luke's hospital for treatment. The graft operation was successful but the woman was so weakened that she died.

George and Edward Carter were killed when a saloon was burned down at Lewiston. The fire was caused by a gas leak and the saloon was owned by George and Edward Carter. The fire was caused by a gas leak and the saloon was owned by George and Edward Carter.

Raffles, The Amateur Cracksman

By E. W. HORNING

NINE POINTS of THE LAW

No. 5 of the Series

(Copyright, 1899, by Charles Scribner's Sons.)

WELL, said Raffles, "what do you make of it?"

I read the advertisement once more before replying. It was in the last column of the Daily Telegraph, and it ran:

Two Thousand Pounds Reward.—The above sum may be earned by any one qualified to undertake delicate mission and prepared to run certain risk. Apply by telegram. SECURITY, London.

"I think," said I, "it's the most extraordinary advertisement that ever got into print."

Raffles smiled.

"Not quite all that, Bunny; still, extraordinary enough, I grant you."

"Look at the figure!"

"It is certainly large."

"And the mission—and the risk!"

"Yes, the combination is frank, to say the least of it. But the really original point is requiring applications by telegram to a telegraphic address! There's something in the fellow who thought of that, and something in his game. With one word he chokes off the millions who answer an advertisement every day—when they can raise the stamp. My answer cost me 5 bob. But then I prepaid another."

"You don't mean to say that you've applied?"

"Rather," said Raffles. "I want £2,000 as much as any man."

"Put your own name?"

"Well, no, Bunny, I didn't. In point of fact I smell something interesting and illegal, and you know what a cautious chap I am. I signed myself Glasspool, care of Hickey, 38 Conduit street—that's my tailor—and after sending the wire I went round and told him what to expect. He promised to send the reply along the moment it came. I shouldn't be surprised if that's it!"

And he was gone before a double knock on the outer door had done ringing through the rooms, to return next minute with an open telegram and a face full of news.

"What do you think?" said he. "Security's that fellow Addenbrooke, the police court lawyer, and he wants to see me instantly!"

"Do you know him, then?"

"Merely by repute. I only hope he doesn't know me. He's the chap who got six weeks for sailing too close to the wind in the Sutton-Wilmer case. Everybody wondered why he wasn't struck off the rolls. Instead of that he's got a first rate practice on the seamy side, and every blackguard with half a case takes it straight to Bennett Addenbrooke. He's probably the one man who would have the cheek to put in an advertisement like that, and the one man who could do it without exciting suspicion. It's simply in his line, but you may be sure there's something shady at the bottom of it. The odd thing is that I have long made up my mind to go to Addenbrooke myself if accidents should happen."

"And you're going to him now?"

"This minute," said Raffles, brushing his hat. "and so are you."

"But I came in to drag you out to lunch."

"You shall lunch with me when we've seen this fellow. Come on, Bunny, and we'll choose your name on the way. Mine's Glasspool, and don't you forget it."

Mr. Bennett Addenbrooke occupied substantial offices in Wellington street, Strand, and was out when we arrived, but he had only just gone "over the way to the court," and five minutes sufficed to produce a brisk, fresh colored, resolute looking man, with a very confident, rather festive air and black eyes that opened wide at the sight of Raffles.

"Mr.—Glasspool?" exclaimed the lawyer.

"My name," said Raffles with dry effrontery.

"Not up at Lord's, however," said the other slyly. "My dear sir, I have seen you take far too many wickets to make any mistake."

For a single moment Raffles looked venomous. Then he shrugged and smiled, and the smile grew into a little cynical chuckle.

"So you have bowled me out in my turn?" said he. "Well, I don't think there's anything to explain. I am harder up than I wished to admit under my own name, that's all, and I want that £1,000 reward."

"Two thousand," said the solicitor.

"And the man who is not above an alias happens to be just the sort of man I want, so don't let that worry you, my dear sir. The matter, however, is of a strictly private and confidential character." And he looked very hard at me.

"Quite so," said Raffles. "But there was something about a risk?"

"A certain risk is involved."

"Then surely three heads will be better than two. I said I wanted that £1,000; my friend here wants the other.

We are both cursedly hard up, and we go into this thing together or not at all. Must you have his name too? I should give him my real one, Bunny."

Mr. Addenbrooke raised his eyebrows over the card I found for him; then he drummed upon it with his finger nail, and his embarrassment expressed itself in a puzzled smile.

"The fact is I find myself in a difficulty," he confessed at last. "Yours is the first reply I have received. People who can afford to send long telegrams don't rush to the advertisements in the Daily Telegraph; but, on the other hand, I was not quite prepared to hear from men like yourselves. Candidly and on consideration I am not sure that you are the stamp of men for me—men who belong to good clubs; I rather intended to appeal to the—adventurous classes."

"We are adventurers," said Raffles gravely.

"But you respect the law?"

The black eyes gleamed shrewdly.

"We are not professional rogues, if that's what you mean," said Raffles, smiling. "But on our beam ends we are. We would do a good deal for £1,000 apiece, eh, Bunny?"

"Anything," I murmured.

The solicitor rapped his desk.

"I'll tell you what I want you to do. You can but refuse. It's illegal, but it's illegality in a good cause. That's the risk, and my client is prepared to pay for it. He will pay for the attempt in case of failure. The money is as good as yours once you consent to run the risk. My client is Sir Bernard Debenham of Broom Hall, Essex."

"I know his son," I remarked.

Raffles knew him, too, but said nothing, and his eye drooped disapproval in my direction. Bennett Addenbrooke turned to me.

"Then," said he, "you have the privilege of knowing one of the most complete young blackguards about town and the fons et origo of the whole trouble. As you know the son, you may know the father, too, at all events by reputation, and in that case I needn't tell you that he is a very peculiar man. He lives alone in a storehouse of treasures which no eyes but his ever behold. He is said to have the finest collection of pictures in the south of England, though nobody ever sees them to judge. Pictures, fiddles and furniture are his hobby, and he is undoubtedly very eccentric. Nor can one deny that there has been considerable eccentricity in his treatment of his son. For years Sir Bernard paid his debts and the other day, without the slightest warning, not only refused to do so any more, but absolutely stopped the lad's allowance. Well, I'll tell you what has happened, but first of all you must know, or you may remember, that I appeared for young Debenham in a little scrape he got into a year or two ago. I got him off all right, and Sir Bernard paid me handsomely on the nail. And no more did I hear or see of either of them until one day last week."

The lawyer drew his chair nearer ours and leaned forward with a hand on either knee.

"On Tuesday of last week I had a telegram from Sir Bernard. I was to go to him at once. I found him waiting for me in the drive. Without a word he led me to the picture gallery, which was locked and darkened, drew up a blind and stood simply pointing to an empty picture frame. It was a long time before I could get a word out of him. Then at last he told me that that frame had contained one of the rarest and most valuable pictures in England—in the world—an original Velasquez. I have checked this," said the lawyer, "and it seems literally true; the picture was a portrait of the Infanta Maria Teresa, said to be one of the artist's greatest works, second only to another portrait of one of the popes in Rome—so they told me at the National gallery, where they had its history by heart. They say there that the picture is practically priceless. And young Debenham has sold it for £5,000!"

"The deuce he has!" said Raffles.

I inquired who had bought it.

"A Queensland legislator of the name of Craggs—the Hon. John Montagu Craggs, M. L. C., to give him his full title. Not that we knew anything about him on Tuesday last; we didn't even know for certain that young Debenham had stolen the picture, but he had gone down for money on the Monday evening, had been refused and it was plain enough that he had helped himself in this way. He had threatened revenge, and this was it. Indeed, when I hunted him up in town on the Tuesday night he confessed as much in the most brazen manner imaginable. But he wouldn't tell me who was the purchaser, and finding out took the rest of the week; but I did find out, and a nice time I've had of it ever since—backward and forward between Essex and the Metropole, where the Queenslander is staying, sometimes twice a day; threats, offers, prayers, entreaties—not one of them a bit of good!"

"But," said Raffles, "surely it's a clear case? The sale was illegal; you can pay him back his money and force him to give the picture up."

"Exactly, but not without an action and a public scandal, and that my client declines to face. He would rather lose even his picture than have the whole thing get into the papers. He has disowned his son, but he will not disgrace him; yet his picture he must have by hook or crook, and there's the rub. I am to get it back by fair means or foul. He gives me carte blanche in the matter, and I verily believe would throw in a blank check if asked. He offered one to the Queenslander, but Craggs simply tore it in two. The one old boy is as much a character as the other, and between the two of them I'm at my wits' end."

"So you put that advertisement in the paper?" said Raffles in the dry chore. "You're up to every trick—every one. I'm inclined to think that if any body could bowl out this old Australian—damme, I believe you're my very man!"

The bargain was clinched at the Cafe Royal, where Bennett Addenbrooke insisted on playing host at an extravagant luncheon. I remember that he took his whack of champagne with the nervous freedom of a man at high pressure and have no doubt I kept him in countenance by an equal indulgence, but Raffles, ever an exemplar in such matters, was more abstemious even than his wont and very poor company to boot. I can see him now, his eyes in his place—thinking—thinking. I can see the solicitor glancing from him to me in an apprehension of which I did my best to disabuse him by reassuring looks. At the close Raffles apologized for his preoccupation, called for an A. B. C. time table and announced his intention of catching the 3.02 for Essex.

"You must excuse me, Mr. Addenbrooke," but I have my own idea, and for the moment I should much prefer to keep it to myself. It may end in a fizzle, so I would rather not speak about it to either of you just yet. But speak to Sir Bernard I must, so will you write me one line to him on my card? Of course, if you wish, you with the original. So down I went to Esler to find out if there was a copy in existence and was at Broom Hall for one hour and a half yesterday afternoon. There was no copy there, but they must exist, for Sir Bernard himself (there's 'copy' there) has allowed a couple to be made since the picture has been in his possession. He hunted up the painters' addresses, and the rest of the evening I spent in hunting up the painters themselves, but their work had been done on commission. One copy had gone out of the country, and I'm still on the track of the other."

"Then you haven't seen Craggs yet?"

"Seen him and made friends with him, and, if possible, he's the funnier old cuss of the two; but you should study 'em both. I took the bull by the horns this morning, went in and lied like Ananias, and it was just as well I did. The old ruffian says for Australia by tomorrow's boat. I told him a man wanted to sell me a copy of the celebrated Infanta Maria Teresa of Velasquez; that I'd been down to the supposed owner of the picture only to find that he had just sold it to him. You should have seen his face when I told him that! He grinned all round his wicked old head. 'Did old Debenham admit the sale?' says he, and when I said he did he chuckled to himself for about five minutes. He was so pleased that he did just what I hoped he would do, he showed me the great picture—luckily, it isn't by any means a large one—also the case he's got it in. It's an iron map case, in which he brought over the plans of his land in Brisbane. He wants to know who would suspect it of containing an old master too? But he's had it fitted with a new Chubb lock, and I managed to take an interest in the key while he was gloating over the canvas. I had the wax in the palm of my hand, and I shall make my duplicate this afternoon."

Raffles looked at his watch and jumped up, saying he, had given me a minute too much.

"By the way," he added, "you've got to dine with him at the Metropole tonight."

"I?"

"Yes. Don't look so scared. Both of us are invited. I swore you were dining with me. I accepted for us both, but I shan't be there."

His clear eye was upon me, bright with meaning and with mischief. I implored him to tell me what his meaning was.

"You will dine in his private sitting room," said Raffles. "It adjoins his bedroom. You must keep him sitting as long as possible, Bunny, and talking all the time!"

In a flash I saw his plan.

"You're going for the picture while we're at dinner?"

"I am."

"If he hears you?"

"He shan't."

"But if he does?"

"And I fairly trembled at the thought. 'If he does,' said Raffles, 'there will be a collision, that's all. Revolver would be out of place in the Metropole, but I shall certainly take a life preserver.'"

"But it's ghastly!" I cried. "To sit and talk to an utter stranger and to know that you're at work in the next room!"

"Two thousand apiece," said Raffles quietly.

"Upon my soul, I believe I shall give it away!"

"Not you, Bunny. I know you better than you know yourself."

He put on his coat and his hat.

"What time have I to be there?" I asked him, with a groan.

"Quarter to 8. There will be a telegram from me saying I can't turn up. He's a terror to talk. You'll have no difficulty in keeping the ball rolling. But head him off his picture for all you're worth. If he offers to show it you, say you must go. He locked up the case elaborately this afternoon, and there's no earthly reason why he should unlock it again in this hemisphere."

"Where shall I find you when I get away?"

"I shall be down at Esler. I hope to catch the 9.55."

"But surely I can see you again this afternoon?" I cried in a ferment, for his hand was on the door. "I'm not half-coached up yet! I know I shall make a mess of it!"

"Not you," he said again, "but I shall if I waste any more time. I've got a deuce of a lot of rushing about to do yet. You won't find me at my rooms. Why not come down to Esler yourself by the last train? That's it—down you come with the latest news! I'll tell old Debenham to expect you. He shall give us both a bed. By Jove, he won't be able to do us too well if he's got his picture."

"If?" I groaned as he nodded his adieu. And he left me limp with apprehension, sick with fear, in a perfectly pitiable condition of pure stage fright.

For, after all, I had only to act my part. Unless Raffles failed where he never did fail, unless Raffles the neat and noiseless was for once clumsy and inept, all I had to do was indeed to "smile and smile and be a villain." I practiced that smile half the afternoon. I rehearsed putative parts in hypothetical conversations. I got up stories. I dipped in a book on Queensland at the club. And at last it was 7.45 and I was making my bow to a somewhat elderly man with a small bald head and a retreating brow.

"So you're Mr. Raffles' friend?" said he, overhauling me rather rudely with his light, small eyes. "Seen anything of him? Expected him early to show me something, but he's never come."

No more evidently had his telegram, and my troubles were beginning early. I said I had not seen Raffles since 10 o'clock, telling the truth with unctious must come down with me and hear what I say, but I really don't see much point in it."

And, as usual, Raffles had his way, though Bennett Addenbrooke showed some temper when he was gone, and I myself shared his annoyance to no small extent. I could only tell him that it was in the nature of Raffles that he was self-willed and secretive, but that no man of my acquaintance had half his audacity and determination; that I, for my part, would trust him through and through and let him gang his own gait every time. More I dared not say even to remove those chill misgivings with which I knew that the lawyer went his way.

That day I saw no more of Raffles, but a telegram reached me when I was dressing for dinner:

Be in your rooms tomorrow from noon and keep rest of day clear. RAFFLES.

It had been sent off from Waterloo at 6.32.

So Raffles was back in town. At an earlier stage of our relations I should have hunted him up then and there, but now I knew better. His telegram meant that he had no desire for my society that night or the following forenoon; that when he wanted me I should see him soon enough.

And see him I did toward 1 o'clock next day. I was watching for him from my window in Mount street when he drove up furiously in a bansom and jumped out without a word to the man. I met him next minute at the lift gates, and he fairly pushed me back into my rooms.

"Five minutes, Bunny," he cried. "Not a moment more."

And he tore off his coat before flinging himself into the nearest chair.

"I'm fairly on the rush," he panted. "Having the very devil of a time! Not a word till I tell you all I've done. I settled my plan of campaign yesterday at lunch. The first thing was to get in with this man Craggs. You can't break into a place like the Metropole; it's got to be done from the inside. Problem one, how to get at the fellow. Only one sort of pretext would do—it must be something to do with this blessed picture, so that I might see where he'd got it and all that. Well, I couldn't go and ask to see it out of curiosity, and I couldn't go as a second representative of the other old chap, and it was thinking how I could go that made me such a bear at lunch. But I saw my way before we got up. If I could only lay hold of a copy of the picture I might ask leave to go and compare it with the original. So down I went to Esler to find out if there was a copy in existence and was at Broom Hall for one hour and a half yesterday afternoon. There was no copy there, but they must exist, for Sir Bernard himself (there's 'copy' there) has allowed a couple to be made since the picture has been in his possession. OBITUARY

MRS. A. J. HILL.

The funeral of the late Mrs. A. J. Hill took place from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harding, in Johnstown Saturday at 11 o'clock, and was largely attended, as the deceased was one of the best known and most highly respected women in that community. The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Lathrop, pastor of the Johnstown M. E. church, of which the deceased had been a devoted member ever since her early youth. The pall bearers were the three sons of the deceased, Messrs. James, Samuel and George Hill, two brothers, Messrs. Johnson, and a son-in-law, Dr. J. N. Wright, the new county auditor. The interment was made in the beautiful Johnstown cemetery, a short distance west of the village, where the earthly remains of the beloved wife, mother, sister and friend were laid in their last resting place.

Mrs. Hill was a woman of unusual strength of character and purity and loveliness of life—a model woman in every respect. She glorified life and made of death only the covered way to Heaven, where she awaits the coming of the loved ones left behind a little while on earth.

GEORGE A. TEAFF.

After 17 months of almost continual suffering, following an operation for appendicitis, George Amos Teaff died at his home, 52 South First street, on Monday morning at 8 o'clock. The deceased was born in Steubenville, February, 1852. He came to Newark in 1875, and was married to Miss Cedora H. Lippincott in 1877. To them no children were born. Aside from the wife he leaves a father, three brothers and two sisters to mourn his death. He has been a worthy employee of the B. & O. railroad company as carpenter for the past 25 years and has a host of friends who regret his death.

Mr. Teaff has lived a life beyond reproach, and possessed the many traits that make character. Although he has suffered untold agony he never complained of his own condition, but was appreciative of every little kindness shown him, ever thoughtful and considerate for the wife and friends who stood nobly by and administered to his every need until the last.

Mr. Teaff was a faithful member of both Newark lodge K. of P. No. 13 and the Bayard Taylor council, Royal Arcanum of this city.

The funeral services will be held under the auspices of Newark lodge No. 13 from St. Paul's Lutheran church Wednesday at 1:30 p. m. Friends of the family invited to the church.

MRS. KAMMERER'S FUNERAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Hoffmann, Mrs. Christian Kirchner, and daughter, Mr. David Smith, Mr. Peter Schubach, Miss Kate Schubach, all of Zanesville, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eshman and Miss Minnie Bieher of Dresden, and Miss Annie Lang of Coshocton, attended the funeral.

Will Dr. McCleery Answer?
Dr. McCleery, the Republican candidate for Mayor, still fails to define his position on the local issue that has been sprung by his party organ. But the people want to know how he stands upon the issue. The question is does the doctor favor the enforcement of the laws and city ordinances against intoxication? Will Dr. McCleery answer?

Something must be decidedly wrong in Northern Ohio when such a rock-ribbed Republican paper as the Medina Gazette bolts Herrick. For 50 years the Gazette has been a staunch supporter of its party, but it opposes Herrick in a scorching editorial comment, an account of which is given in our news columns. This paper's action signifies plainly that an upheaval is due in that part of the State, the extent of which will be surprising to the Cox machine bosses on election night.

John M. Pattison, the Democratic nominee for governor, is handing it out to Governor Herrick these days. The campaign is getting warm enough. The governor began to ask questions and make demands upon Pattison who is coming back with more than the governor expected.

"There are abundant signs that the people are getting decidedly weary of the cry of 'Coxism,'" says the Republican organs at the home of Senator Dick, chairman of George B. Cox's state executive committee. The most wearied people in the state are Cox. Herrick and Dick who resolved that they were the Republican party of Ohio.

The belated outgivings from the war department of the widely extended scourge of cholera in the Philippines can justly excite the indignation of Americans, not only because the prevalence of the epidemic has been concealed in regular Russian censorship style, but because a party of tourists have been returning from the islands without quarantine or question. Cholera does not select its victims by any rule of official precedence that governs Washington. It would have been a sad event had some of the women in that expedition been stricken, and it may be as bad if any germs of the dread disease have been brought back. The secrecy maintained is inexcusable.

THE EPWORTH LEAGUE,
At its Annual Convention, Passed Resolutions Condemning Herrick.

Urbana, O., Oct. 15.—At the annual convention of the Springfield District Epworth League held here the following resolutions were adopted against Governor Herrick:
"Since the breweries and the liquor associations of Ohio have appealed to the saloon keepers, their patrons, throughout the state, to make a personal canvass and fight against temperance, be it
Resolved, That we do all on our part against this measure.
Resolved, That we deplore the attitude that Governor Herrick has taken on temperance in putting himself in the same class with saloon keepers and against the home and the churches."
The resolutions were unanimously adopted and the convention applauded when Herrick's name was mentioned along with the saloon keeper.
Dr. Stephen Herben, editor of the Epworth Herald, of Chicago, alluded to the present contest in this state, and commented on the letter just issued by the Fleischmann Distilling company, of Cincinnati. He said that the eyes of all of the states were looking toward Ohio this fall, to see if it would clear itself, as other states have done. He stated that a tornado is sweeping this country against graft, and all good people hoped to see John M. Pattison elected governor.

FOR FIFTY YEARS
This Paper Has Been Republican, But It Flatly Bolts Herrick.
Medina, O., Oct. 15.—The Gazette, the leading paper of Medina county, and an official Republican organ, came out on Friday with a flat refusal to support Governor Herrick. In a double column editorial, under the heading "Why We Bolt Him," it states its reasons for this stand as follows:
"The name of Myron T. Herrick does not appear at the head of the Republican ticket, placed in our columns today, and its omission is not unintentional. It means that the Gazette cannot support Mr. Herrick for Governor, however much it dislikes to be in opposition to any Republican candidate for office, and when a party paper that has unwaveringly supported all the candidates of one party for 50 continuous years believes the occasion has arisen to refuse its support to one of its party's candidates for a great office, that paper should have good reasons for its action and declare such reasons fully, honestly and fearlessly and this we purpose here to do."
"He was nominated in a convention in which the chosen delegates of 500,000 Republicans of Ohio had as little to say about the ticket or platform as would a huddle of homeless dogs in Medina's public park. It was a dummy convention, forestalled and muzzled."

This flat-footed bolting of the Republican candidate has caused consternation in Republican circles throughout Northern Ohio and it is believed will change thousands of votes.

GIRLS ARE SCARCE
Stork is Leaving Nothing But Boy Babies in Mansfield, Ohio, These Days.
Mansfield, O., Oct. 16.—Mansfield has been having a deluge of boy babies of late. Nearly every birth recorded is that of a boy, and if the same ratio keeps up here girls will be at a premium a few years hence. Of the 23 babies born in Mansfield in the past four weeks 19 are boys. At David Brooker's home on West Fifth street, twins were born—a girl one night and a boy the following morning. It seems as if the stork can't be prevailed upon to bring anything but boys—and big boys, too, for nearly every one reported of late weighs from 10 to 13 pounds.

DECLINES TO EAT
Because He Thinks He Has Had His Share, and Micajah is Dying of Starvation.
Anderson, Ind., Oct. 16.—Today is the eighth day since Micajah Chamness, an insane prisoner at the county jail, has swallowed any food whatever. He refuses to eat because of his hallucination that he has eaten his share of the world's provisions and must partake of no more. Efforts to induce the aged man to take some nourishment has been of no avail.
Chamness believes that he will soon die of his voluntary fast and today he sent for an undertaker and gave directions as how he wished to be buried. Chamness is 88 years old. He was taken into custody about six months ago while living alone in a hut near Alexandria. He was thought to possess considerable property, but it has not been found.

DAUGHTER
Will Be a Bridesmaid When Rev. McEwan, Pastor, Weds His Stenographer.
Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 16.—The congregation of one of the wealthiest churches of this city is becoming very democratic. Rev. Dr. Wm. L. McEwan to-morrow evening will marry his stenographer, Mrs. Eleanor Fulton Colvin. She has been a stranger in the social set, and is not even a member of Dr. McEwan's congregation. When her husband died she was forced to earn her own living and studied stenography. Her first position was with Dr. McEwan. It has been frequently rumored that Dr. McEwan was to marry Mrs. William Thaw, one of the richest women in the city and a member of the congregation.
More than a year ago, when Dr. McEwan was offered the presidency of a large southern college, Mrs. Thaw prevented him from accepting and gave him a check for $3,000 on his birthday. The children of Dr. McEwan are said to favor the union and the eldest daughter is to act as bridesmaid for Mrs. Colvin at her home, 616 Mellon street. It will be a private affair, however.
Mrs. Thaw is very much interested in this match and tendered the bride-elect a reception last Thursday evening. Mrs. Colvin is not a descendant of any of the blue blooded families of Pittsburg. One of the members of Dr. McEwan's congregation when asked how it happened Dr. McEwan had passed so many rich women in his congregation, replied: "Propinquity." Dr. McEwan performed the marriage ceremony for Alice Thaw and the Earl of Yarmouth. He also officiated at the marriage of Harry Thaw and Evelyn Nesbit, who are now worshippers in his church, and Joseph Thaw, a brother, who is a worker in the church.

AUDITOR PITSER OUT OF OFFICE HAS RETIRED AFTER YEARS OF FAITHFUL AND COMPETENT PERFORMANCE OF DUTY.
New County Auditor Dr. J. N. Wright, Formerly of Johnstown Now in Charge of Affairs.

County Auditor A. R. Pitsner, who has so long and so faithfully served the people of Licking county in that important office, retired from the office on Monday morning by the expiration of his term of service, and was succeeded by County Auditor J. N. Wright, the first Republican auditor ever elected in Licking county since the memorable Know Nothing landslide in 1854. Of course, Dr. Wright was elected last fall as a result of the great Roosevelt landslide that swept almost everything from its moorings, and is not likely to occur again in half a century—the fact is, it was just half a century from the Know Nothing landslide of 1854 to the Roosevelt landslide of 1904.

Mr. Pitsner has had an unusually long public service in the office of County Auditor, extending over a period of twenty-five years, nineteen of which were spent as Deputy Auditor and the last six years as County Auditor. Mr. Pitsner's service as Deputy Auditor was not continuous as he was not Deputy under the term of service of J. F. Lindegar. But a term of service of 25 years in one county office is very remarkable, and testifies better than any other thing could to Mr. Pitsner's high qualifications for the office. It goes without saying that Mr. Pitsner has made an ideal Auditor in every respect, so much so that he has been looked upon as authority among his brother auditors throughout the state for many years, upon the difficult and intricate questions that so frequently come up for solution in the Auditor's office. Naturally an expert and accurate mathematician and experienced civil engineer and surveyor and familiar from long experience with every piece of land in Licking county, and being withal an exceedingly clever and accommodating gentleman, Mr. Pitsner has proved invaluable as a County Auditor, and has justly popularized himself with the citizens of the county generally, irrespective of party.
Just what Mr. Pitsner's general future plans are we do not know. For a short time he will remain with Auditor Wright and break him into the duties of his new office. But whatever Mr. Pitsner may engage in he will have the warmest wishes of the public for his future success and prosperity.
Mr. Sam'l C. Bell who has been Mr. Pitsner's popular and efficient deputy during his entire term of office as Auditor, will also retire from the office. Mr. Bell's faithfulness and ability together with his deserved popularity, should and will give him that recognition in the future that he so well deserves.
Mr. R. M. Martin, a well known young attorney, will be Dr. Wright's permanent deputy.

BORN
On the Same Day and the Aged Couple Died Within an Hour of Each Other.
McDonald, Pa., Oct. 16.—Born on the same day and in the same county, living their entire lives side by side, Mr. and Mrs. August Weitzel died here yesterday afternoon within an hour of each other. They were each 67 years old. A double funeral will be held Tuesday, when the bodies will be buried side by side.
For some time Mrs. Weitzel had been ill. Mr. Weitzel, who was a prominent business man and one of the wealthiest men in the place, was her constant attendant. Shortly after 2 o'clock she breathed her last. When he realized that his wife was no more Mr. Weitzel uttered a cry and fell forward. He was picked up unconscious, and within an hour he had joined his wife in death.
Mr. and Mrs. Weitzel were born in Washington county on adjoining farms. They were sweethearts as children and married early in life.

Attempt Foiled Few Moments Before Express Was Due—Big Bar of Iron Found on Track.
Stamford, Conn., Oct. 16.—An attempt to wreck the westbound express of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad was foiled a few moments before the train was due. George H. Schofield, a tower operator, while walking the track to his home, found an obstruction in the shape of a big bar of iron on the track which, it is said, would have wrecked the train. The bar of iron was 15 inches long and about three inches thick. The bar was imbedded in stones and it was with difficulty that Schofield pulled it out.

Attempt Foiled Few Moments Before Express Was Due—Big Bar of Iron Found on Track.
Stamford, Conn., Oct. 16.—An attempt to wreck the westbound express of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad was foiled a few moments before the train was due. George H. Schofield, a tower operator, while walking the track to his home, found an obstruction in the shape of a big bar of iron on the track which, it is said, would have wrecked the train. The bar of iron was 15 inches long and about three inches thick. The bar was imbedded in stones and it was with difficulty that Schofield pulled it out.
Corpses of Joseph Kantrun, 27, and his three months old child, Anna, were found in a closet beneath a stairway in a three story tenement destroyed by fire at Chicago.

Through the unreasonableness of Ohio State nearly four thousand people, all anxious to see what promised to be one of the hardest fought football games ever played in Columbus, were sorely disappointed Saturday when the announcement was made that the game would not be played because the two teams could not agree on the length of the halves.

For the first time in years, an Ohio team was declared the winner of a game without having exerted one muscle in play. Probably no game played in the state excited as much comment as the O. S. U.-Denison game, and all were startled when it was declared off and a little thought was given to the significance of this unusual procedure.

There is much discussion as to just what the result will be. For the present at least, all athletic relations between Denison and Ohio State are severed. Whether this will be a permanent thing, as is the case between the Methodists and the Columbus school, can not be stated. That, however, is not the all absorbing topic for there is not a student at Granville who will grieve over the question except that Denison will not have the opportunity to humiliate State by defeating them either in base ball or football. The prospects of a track meet between the two colleges are now very discouraging.

What now worries Denison sympathizers is how will the people of the state look upon their action. Will they be blamed for not going into the game to play the full limit, or will they be patted on the back for taking a firm stand and asserting their rights. It is a well known fact that nearly every man in the land who ever attended an Ohio college other than Ohio State University, bitterly hates that school and rejoices whenever they suffer defeat. Why is that the case?

Tonsilline Cures Sore Throat

The throat is one of the most delicate parts of the body. It is also one of the most important, and should be given the best possible care. The throat is the gateway to the body. The air we breathe, the food we eat, the liquids we drink, all pass through it. It is very easily affected by cold, strain, exposure, etc., and Sore Throat is therefore one of our most common ailments. Strangely enough, it is also one of the most neglected.

Sore Throat is a very serious matter, for the whole system is in danger in consequence of it.

Every Sore Throat patient is a candidate for Tonsilline, Quinry, Diphtheria and other serious or fatal diseases, all of which can positively be prevented by the timely cure of the Sore Throat by the use of TONSILLINE.

If taken in time a dose or two will do it. TONSILLINE is made to cure throat diseases and nothing else. It is the one remedy for this purpose sold largely in the United States. Every user endorses it; every physician, knowing its virtues, commends it.

The one most important thing to remember about TONSILLINE is the fact that it really does cure Sore Throat. All druggists, 25c and 50c bottles. The Tonsilline Co. Canton, Ohio.

It is simply because Ohio State is so domineering in her athletic relations with other schools that they at once make themselves unpopular.

We will grant that Ohio State had the right to demand the thirty-five minute halves. As a visiting team, was not Denison entitled to the courtesy usually accorded to visitors? Would it not have been just as well when it was seen that Captain Roubush and Captain Hoyer could not agree, to let one official name the length of time for one half and grant the same courtesy to the other. It would have saved Ohio State some unmerciful roasts.

Why does every small college in the state hate O. S. U.? Here are some figures. There were between three and four thousand people assembled at the "U" field to witness the game scheduled. Every person excepting the attaches and officials and a few newspaper men, planked down fifty cents for a ticket. Once inside, if you were not a student, you were forced to spend an additional twenty-five cents for a seat in the bleachers. Several hundred were in the grand stand where the tax was an additional fifty cents. At a conservative estimate, Ohio State's receipts amounted to two thousand dollars. Of this amount, Denison was not given a per cent., but was compelled to accept $150 as their portion of the receipts, which by their reputation as football players, they helped to swell.

Then too, State has an enrollment of many hundreds more than many of the smaller colleges and are thus enabled to turn out a big football squad. The squad for Saturday's game, including all the substitutes, numbered forty-five men. It was Sweetland's intention to play the seventy minutes allowed by the rules, and keep feeding his fresh men into the machine and, if possible, practically smash the Denison eleven, thus dashing to the ground their chances of making a good showing against Michigan on Wednesday of this week.

Section A of Football Rule 12 says: "The length of the game shall be 70 minutes, divided into two halves of 35 minutes each, exclusive of time taken out. There shall be ten minutes' intermission between the two halves."

An exception to the rule is worded as follows: "The game may be of shorter duration by mutual consent between the captains of the contesting teams."

The above rule caused the whole trouble. Last year, State took advantage of this ruling and demanded the extreme limit. Denison submitted. This year, the board of control from Denison, balked and refused to allow the team to play as dictated by O. S. U. It was merely a case of where they refused to let State bully them. They offered to play any length of time under thirty-five minutes, thirty or even more.

The Dispatch, the fairest paper in Columbus said: "Denison's leaders, with some spark of manhood, refused to be dictated to and the matter was dropped until the teams went to the field. Here Roubush refused the 35-minutes and agreed to play anything in reason less than that. The whistle of the referee blew and after two minutes the game was forfeited by Referee Esterline to Ohio State. The score which he had the right to determine was not even announced."

"The scrub game was on and outside of a few little brushes between rival rooters and some jostling the biggest fiasco ever enacted on an Ohio State was left for the newspapers to write about."

"Technically Ohio State had a right to call for 35-minute halves. On any other ground they did not. There wasn't another single game in the country Saturday of that length and no captain perhaps demanded a contest of that duration. Denison was taken advantage of to this extent and the usual courtesies of a visiting team denied them. The rules say that the game shall be 70 minutes in duration to be divided in halves of 35 minutes each with an intermission of ten minutes. These same rules are also explained to mean that by mutual agreement of captains the halves may be shortened. The mutual agreement of halves was left out of consideration."

"Coach Sweetland stated to the newspaper men that he had been instructed by the Ohio State board to make the game full length or not at all. Denison refused to be dictated to but calmly came to the front and was willing to play 20 or 30 or even 10 minutes halves but not 35 on the ground that the time had been practically dictated."

Ohio State's board made a great mistake in its attitude. Perhaps provoked by trouble about eligibility they were caused to take this step. It was not a move which could find favor with a general public and men who are versed in college athletics and who are in touch with the ethics generally pursued. It means, too, that for the present, at least, athletic relations between these two institutions are severed. The entire affair is regrettable and reflects meagre credit on the athletic name of the greatest institution of learning in Ohio. It was a day when Ohio State took a step backward in the matter of athletics relations with the smaller schools of the state. Her friends among the smaller schools are too few even now for her own good which made the situation the more deplorable. Denison may have provoked to some extent. There has been trouble before over athletic eligibility. That Denison was not treated fairly in the matter of time remains just the same."

O. S. U. ACTION UNCALLED FOR

DR. COLWELL MAKES A STATEMENT OF CASE FROM DENISON'S POINT OF VIEW.

Affidavits Proved Satisfactorily. That There is no Professionalism in Granville Athletics.

The Ohio State Journal of Sunday printed a long story relative to the action taken by the athletic board of O. S. U. These resolutions were adopted late Friday night, and, it is understood were to be announced to the people assembled at the "U" field between the halves of Saturday's game.

This action was unprecedented inasmuch as the board of control of Denison University, took every protest offered by Ohio State and offered indisputable evidence that the charges were unfounded. The Denison athletic people understood that their affidavits and statements were satisfactory and that State was satisfied that all men were eligible. This belief was substantiated by the fact that the Columbus morning paper stated that the game would be played as all disputes had been settled.

Dr. Colwell, of the Denison Board of Control, called at the Advocate office Monday and stated that he is anxious to have the people of Newark understand that Denison is absolutely clean in her athletic relations with all schools, and that the Big Six rules are observed strictly when candidates for football present themselves. He stated that Denison had observed rules probably more strictly than those of the Big Six, even before this combination of Ohio colleges was formed.

Relative to the resolutions adopted by State's athletic board, Dr. Colwell said: "Denison's list of players was presented to Ohio State's athletic board on Sept. 30. Later they protested Roubush, Webber and Livingston. The reasons for these protests are well known. We proved to them that the charges against these men were unfounded, and the statements made concerning Oarsky were foolish as we told them that he had not qualified as a student and would not be with the eleven."

"We also presented affidavits to the effect that Roubush was not in Dayton at all during the summer to play for or for other reasons, except as a member of Denison's baseball team. An affidavit was also offered that Webber, while he was employed at the Cash Register factory as a guard, did not receive money for playing on the football team, though he did play a number of games."

"Regarding Livingston, we furnished positive evidence that he was not employed in the physical department of the Piqua Y. M. C. A. as was charged by Ohio State."

Dr. Colwell could not state whether the athletic relations between the two schools would be severed. It would not surprise Denison people if State backed down and reconsidered her hasty action in this regard as it is looked upon as entirely uncalled for. However, any such advance will necessarily have to be made by Ohio State.

LIPPINCOTT HURT

Newark Fullback Suffers a Fractured Rib in Saturday's Game--Russell Substituted.

Walter Lippincott, the fullback of the Newark High school football eleven, suffered a painful injury at New Philadelphia Saturday, which may keep him out of the game during the rest of the year. In one of the scrimmages he tackled one of Philadelphia's 210 pounds players and was struck in the side by the man's knee. A fracture of one of the ribs resulted and Lippincott was compelled to retire from the game. "Rusty" Russell, one of the substitutes, went in the game in Lippincott's position and made a good showing considering his weight.

Two of the New Philadelphia players weighed more than 200 pounds, and several more than 165, while but few were less than 150. With Lippincott out of the game, the local team was greatly outweighed.

Accept Gomez's Resignation.

Havana, Oct. 16.—The provincial council of Santa Clara accepted the resignations of the governor, General Gomez, who recently abandoned his candidacy for the presidency on the Liberal ticket, and M. Alverdi, the lieutenant governor, who has been acting governor during the absence in the United States of Governor Gomez. The council then took up the question of the election of their successors.

Hyde Will Testify.

New York, Oct. 16.—James Hazen Hyde has finally decided to face the insurance investigation. Through his personal attorney, Samuel Untermyer, it was announced that Mr. Hyde would be here in the next day or two, prepared to accept a subpoena from the legislative committee. He is expected in the city not later than Wednesday. Mr. Hyde has been visiting friends in and near Boston recently.

The board has almost entirely disappeared from England, Ireland and South Africa is scarce on the Continent.

SPRINGFIELD

Of Central League Wallops Newark in Sunday Afternoon Ball Game

EACH PITCHER FANS TEN MEN

SCHWEITZER CUTS OFF RUNNER AT PLATE BY CLEAN THROW

Humphreys Fields Position in Sensational Manner Though He Had Two Errors--Small Crowd.

By some clever hitting Sunday afternoon, Newark had the Springfield Central league team whipped, only to let them rally in the ninth inning and assist them, by an error, to score enough runs, to win the game.

Despite the fact that the game was played on a sloppy diamond, there was some clever playing. Humphreys jumped into the air in the fourth inning and killed Gillen's sure single. F. Donahue of the Springfield aggregation, played a sensational game at shortstop. Al Schweitzer did another hair raising stunt in throwing from deep center to catch a runner at the plate.

Newark scored two runs in the third inning when Howard Stone started things off with a two casker. Purtell got a base on balls but was thrown out at second on a fielder's choice. Snyder and Stone worked the double steal very nicely. Stone scoring and Snyder going to third. Snodgrass got a single and Doyle's double scored Snyder and put Snow on third. Al Schweitzer fled out to right and retired the side, McDonald having fanned.

In every run for the visitors, an error figured. Their first came in the first frame on Humphreys' chinker. Bissell had another in the third and in the ninth Stone threw wild to second to catch Dunn and the men circled the bases before the ball was recovered.

The crowd was rather small, but was very enthusiastic and applauded the good plays of both teams. The score:

SPORTING WORLD GENERAL NEWS

ST. LOUIS AMERICANS WIN THE SERIES BY CAPTURING A DOUBLE HEADER.

Zanesville Whips Pittsburg--Balloon Race--Irish Athlete's Feet--Winning Auto Damaged.

St. Louis, Oct. 16.—After apparently being hopelessly beaten the local Americans came from behind with a rush in the eighth inning of the first game of Sunday's double-header and defeated the Nationals by the narrow margin of one run, 8 to 7, thereby tying the local interleague championship series and enabling them to capture that honor by annexing the second game, 3 to 0. The first contest was bitterly fought, neither side overlooking a strategic move. Howell was put out of the grounds for objecting to a decision. The second game was called at the end of the sixth on account of darkness. Attendance, 18,000.

Fifteen Balloons in a Race.

Paris, Oct. 16.—Aeronautic representatives of France, Belgium, Spain, Russia, Italy and England ascended from the Tuileries gardens in the presence of an enormous crowd. The contest is to be an endurance one and was organized for the benefit of the sufferers by the recent earthquakes in the province of Calabria, Italy. Fifteen balloons effected a start toward the German frontier during the prevalence of an extremely high wind. The aeronauts will endeavor to beat the distance record of 514 miles, and prizes will also be given for the balloons remaining in the air 48 hours without replenishing their gas bags.

Feat of Irish Athlete.

New York, Oct. 16.—Martin J. Sheridan of the Irish-American Athletic club, ball-round champion of America, beat all records at throwing the discus, establishing a new world's record of 138 feet 3 inches. This throw was made at the games of the Irish-American Athletic club at Celtic park, Long Island City, and was witnessed by over 4,000 spectators. Sheridan beat his previous record of 133 feet 11 1/2 inches twice, his first throw being 133 feet 1 inch, and on his third attempt he made the longer distance.

Chicago Nationals Won.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—The Chicago Nationals won the fourth game out of five played in the post series by a score of 10 to 5, thus winning the championship. Smith was wild in the first and Altrock was sent in to relieve him. Weimer pitched great ball for a few innings, but Brown was sent in to replace him. Both teams hit frequently, but the fielding of each club was sensational. A crowd of 16,121 people witnessed the contest.

Winning Machine Damaged.

New York, Oct. 16.—The French automobile driven to victory in the Vanderbilt cup race on Long Island by Hemery was badly damaged by fire, and one workman was burned about the head as he attempted to save the car. It is believed the accident was due to the carelessness of a spectator while the machine was being prepared for shipment to France at the French headquarters at Mineola, Long Island.

Sensational Game.

Zanesville, O., Oct. 16.—Zanesville closed the season here by defeating Pittsburg in a sensational game. Free hitting on both sides made the contest lively. Zanesville secured a double, three singles and a base on balls in the third and four consecutive singles in the ninth, earning all but one of the scores. Score: Zanesville, 6; Pittsburg, 4.

Baseball Pitcher.

Carrollton, Mo., Oct. 16.—Frank J. Parvin, once a well known baseball pitcher, died at the home of his father in this city of tuberculosis, aged 35. Parvin's last work was with the St. Joseph (Mo.) team in the Western league.

GOV. HERRICK IS DENOUNCED

BY NORTH OHIO CONFERENCE OF THE M. E. CHURCH AT SHELBY, O.

His Defeat, the Methodists Declare, is Essential for Moral Progress.
Bossism Arraigned.

Shelby, O., Oct. 16.—The North Ohio Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church denounced Governor Herrick here in unmistakable terms. As Secretary Stevenson read the resolutions adopted he was interrupted continually by applause. The motion of Rev. Mr. Odleman, presiding elder of the Mansfield District, that the resolutions be read in every pulpit in the conference before election day, was carried. The following are among the resolutions adopted:

"Since our declaration a year ago events have so arrayed themselves as to demand a clear statement of our position on the eve of the forthcoming election.

"The record of the present Governor's dealings with the Brannock law is unworthy of his high office.

"The original Brannock bill was an expression of the temperance sentiment of the majority of the people of Ohio. The Governor first promised neutrality toward the bill during its passage through the legislature. He then threatened the bill with his veto unless it was subjected to certain changes, to which, however, its supporters were opposed, as tending to weaken it. After the passage of the bill thus crippled, he signed it, and now claims the honor of having given to it its effectiveness. We know that its strength came from its friends in the legislature, its weakness from the Governor. We resent his efforts to cast odium upon the leaders of the Anti-Social League, for in its members we have the utmost confidence.

"A few men are not the sole measure of the tremendous demand throughout the state for reform. We will not be made a party, by the silence of caution or of cowardice, to the attempt to obscure the question at stake. We repudiate the efforts of the machine management to belittle the cry raised against 'bossism' in Ohio. We have had enough of interference of the 'boss' of Cincinnati in the politics of the state. At a time when other states are getting deliverance from corrupt control of political affairs it is high time for us to fall in line, with pulpits free and press unmuzzled. Not to do so would be both weak and wicked.

"We recall the words of Emerson, that the penalty that good men pay for not taking a hand in politics is to be ruled by rascals, and to escape that dread penalty we are now making our prayers and registering our vows."

Wholesale Plant Destroyed.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—Five firemen were injured, none fatally, and property valued at $130,000 was destroyed by fire here that demolished the five-story brick building at 75 and 77 Lake street, which was occupied by Podrasnik, Klapperich & Company, wholesale dealers in paints, oils and wall papers. The fire is supposed to have started from spontaneous combustion, and several explosions occurred which for a time threatened to drive the flames to the building occupied by the law department of the Northwestern university. The firemen were injured by falling glass and flying splinters caused by the explosions.

Sternburg to Return.

Berlin, Oct. 16.—A comprehensive denial is given officially of paragraphs appearing in the German press to the effect that Baron Speck von Sternburg is likely to retire from the post of German ambassador to the United States on account of delicate health. The question of exchange of ambassadors at Washington has not been considered. Baron von Sternburg never looked better. He will be given an audience of Emperor William on Oct. 17 and will sail for the United States on the Kaiser Wilhelm II Oct. 24.

AT THE Y. M. C. A.

A goodly number of the employees of The Pratt-Kirk Company responded to the invitation of the Y. M. C. A. to spend Saturday evening at the association building. During the early part of the evening they joined with the members in bowling, and some of them enjoyed a plunge in the swimming pool. At 9 o'clock, as announced, Prof. R. S. Campbell of Bellaire, O., gave a short program of readings and songs in the Reception room.

Prof. Campbell is a natural mimic. His imitation of steam engine whistles and the ringing of the bell was exceptionally well done. His best impersonation was the old man relating his boyhood experience at the country editor press. His songs were of the humorous type and were well received.

These Saturday nights are to be continued at least during the autumn months. Next Saturday evening will be known as "B. and O. night." All employees of the B and O. shop will be especially invited.

Prof. Jesse King Murdock, the talented blind musician from Somerset will entertain with music and song.

HARRY ARMSTRONG PAINFULLY HURT

FOR A TIME IT WAS THOUGHT THAT THE MOLDER HAD BEEN KILLED.

Buggies Collided Sunday Evening in Wilson Street and the Man Fell Upon His Head.

Harry Armstrong, better known as "Butch" Armstrong, one of the best known molders at the Wehrle plant, was badly hurt about 7 o'clock Sunday evening. With a companion he was driving along Wilson street, near the Raccoon bridge, and collided with a rig driven by Dr. P. H. Cosner.

Mr. Armstrong was thrown out and struck on his head and shoulders, rendering him unconscious.

For a time it was suspected that the man had been killed, but by means of artificial respiration, Dr. Cosner finally brought him to consciousness.

Long & McCammett's ambulance was called, and the injured man was taken to his home, 65 1-2 Union street. He sustained some severe bruises and several cuts about the head.

Irving's Resting Place.

London, Oct. 16.—That the body of Sir Henry Irving should find a resting place in Westminster Abbey appears to be a very general desire. The Daily Telegraph says: "The nation will, we are persuaded, ask this honor for him with no uncertain voice, and we know we interpret the wish and feeling of the country when we plead for a public interment in the abbey." The flood of tributes of admiration and affection is increasing. From King Edward downward men of all classes, including the great churchmen, are giving public expression to their feelings on the sad occasion, nearly all dwelling as much on Sir Henry Irving's personal character as on his histrionic talents.

The car when it left the rails ran 100 feet on the pavement and then crashed into a tree. As soon as the emperor's signature had been affixed to the instrument, and before the treaty had been brought back from Peterhof for the countersignature of Foreign Minister Lamsdorff, the news was sent directly to the president.
